

Conceptual causal model: hypotheses, not observed effects

Diamonds mark selection/observation processes.
Arrows are author hypotheses informed by the cited literature/institutions.
They do not establish an adjustment set or causal mediation.
Conditioning on retained assessment defines the study's limited population.

